

Are you charismatic and confident in front of camera?

Do you know your iPhone from your Android?

We're a London based Production Company looking for big characters and engaging individuals to present a number of new shows.

An innovative new web TV channel requires confident and fun presenters to convey the changing world of technology, from media convergence and new trends to the latest 'must haves'.

We're keen to meet those that know their tech as well as those that don't. So an active interest in technology is an advantage but not a necessity. Enthusiasm and personality are vital.

To be considered send your name, age, contact details, your showreel and any tech based presenting work you may have done to: production@theoutfituk.com. And don't forget to tell us that you heard about the opportunity from Pozitiv.

If you don't have a showreel and/or you want to surprise us with something creative to showcase yourself, we would love to see it, so please send to the same email.

If you have a YouSendIt account please use that.

The deadline for applications is Monday 26th September.